Claire Martens, Editor

In the words of E. E. Hale, "Look up and not down; look forward and not back; look out and not in; and lend a hand."

This seemed to serve as a motto for U High students in the 1963-64 school year. No matter what they did, they strove to fulfill the aims set forth in this creed.

"Look up and not down. . . ." They looked up toward success in scholastic and athletic endeavor.

"Look forward and not back. . . ." They looked forward to their new school, its plans and completion.

"Look out and not in. . . ." They looked out toward their community and friends.

"Lend a hand. . . ." Time and time again they did--to fellow students, school projects, and worthy civic causes.

By this creed, U High students have moved forward from the plans of the past to the realities of the present.

The smiling octopus vowing to "tangle Clinton's line" won first place.

Homecoming Parade Kicks Off Festivities for 1963

Smiling faces grace the queen and her court as they circle the parade route.

Homecoming was the word on many tongues during the first week of October. While walking down the hall, one caught the buzzing chatter of someone selling pins and pennants or such remarks as "We haven't even started our float; how's yours?"

Finally the big weekend arrived, and Homecoming was officially ushered in with the annual parade and all its accompanying excitement.

The floats entered this year were fewer in number than in years past, but many homerooms combined their efforts and made more outstanding floats than ever before.

U High quarterback Ken Philpot sneaks across the goal line as Maroons look on in the Homecoming game.

Pioneers' Homecoming Victory First in Five Years

A mass of Clinton tacklers surround an unidentified Pioneer ballcarrier.

The chorus again this year made a queen's float, which was a highlight of the parade.

The first-place ribbon was given to senior homerooms one and four for "We'll Tangle Their Line," which proved to be true at that night's game.

The parade led the spectators to the scene of the ground-breaking ceremony for the new building, which included brief talks and music by the U High band.

The spirit was high following the parade but reached its climax that night at the new Hancock Field, where the

Activities Include Groundbreaking for New U High

Pioneers showed they could tangle Clinton's line, 32-26, for the first Homecoming win in the last five years.

This year, as well as last, the queen was crowned twice--once at the half-time of the game and then again Saturday at the dance in the University Union ballroom. The theme, "Return of the Pioneers," was a perfect title after the exciting victory the night before. The high spirits and the Casuals' music combined to produce smiling faces and fast moving steps. The climax of the dance came when Queen Maggie White and King Roger Doman were crowned. The coronation initiated the grand march, headed by Mr. Eckert and Mr. Krause, and concluded in a royal dance begun by the King and Queen and their courts.

The music and feet halted and the dance floor became silent at midnight. Lights were dimmed, and the last lingering seniors glanced around and with pleasant memories left the Union and their last high school Homecoming, that of 1963.

Casuals provide a dreamy atmosphere for the victory Homecoming dance.

'Satin Starlight' was the theme of the Sophomore Class-sponsored Winter Formal in January. Eric Larson, president of the class, served as general chairman of the dance, with the assistance of Mr. Herberts, sponsor.

The party marked the beginning of a time for taking a deep breath before plunging into a new semester. Exams were just over, and the annual formal again served as a cure of the 'mid-winter doldrums.' Long skirts and dainty corsages replaced the pencils and midnight oil. Little blue programs and a receiving line took the place of cram sheets and alarm clocks.

Committee chairmen, responsible for arranging and carrying out the affair were Russ Arnold and Nancy Neubauer, decorations; Ken Philpot, entertainment; Margaret Tebrugge, invitations; Candy Butts and Jim Hodges, programs and tickets; Dale Neal, publicity; and Mary Lou Britt, refreshments.

Bill Sterba, Claire Martens, and Jo Ann Harris receive recognition from the music department.

If there's one afternoon in the entire school year that everyone looks forward to, it's the annual Awards Day. The assembly recognizes deserving students, and their accomplishments are brought to the attention of the student body.

The assembly opened with the presentation of several citizenship awards. The American Legion awards for students who display outstanding citizenship qualities were awarded to Sue Dunn, Margie Schroeder, and Bill Soper. The DAR and SAR awards were presented to Sue Dunn and Bill Soper. Mary Childs was named the delegate to Girls' State, and Jack Iungerich was named delegate to Boys' State.

The English department presented the Williams Cup to Barry Bartrum for excellence in creative writing. Sue Allen, Kay Brown, Gary Gimmetad, Claire Martens, and Linda Neubauer were named members of Quill and Scroll, international honorary journalism society.

Sue Hancock was awarded the Whitehouse Cup as the outstanding business education student.

The Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow award was made to Sue Allen. The Necchi Sewing Trophy was presented to Ellen Bower.

David Kuntz was the recipient of the Monroe Dodge award for excellence in industrial arts.

The music department announced outstanding seniors in band, chorus, and orchestra. Bill Sterba received the band award, Jo Ann Harris the chorus award, and Claire Martens the orchestra award.

Sue Dunn and Paul McGinnes were named Speakers of the Year. Dixie Smith and Janet Porter were named Thespians of the Year.

The science department awarded the Bausch and Lomb award to Sue Remsburg. Terry Garbe and Todd McNutt received the Blanche McAvoy award. The Ford Future Scientist of America was Bob Belshe.

This year's Student Council officers presented awards to outstanding Council members of the past year. Next year's officers were introduced. They are Jack Iungerich, Grace Harwood, Linda Lyman, and Sarah Walker.

The athletic department announced the names of the boys who had been named the most valuable players by their teammates. They are Gary Walden, football; Bernie Lewis and Dan Zenor, basketball; and Todd McNutt, wrestling. The other lettermen and the cheerleaders were also introduced.

Members of the National Honor Society were introduced as were the newly-elected pledges. A rehearsal for Class Night followed the presentation of the awards.

Claire Martens is valedictorian, Margie Schroeder, salutatorian.

'Anyone for Hooky?' Cry Seniors on Skip Day

A good many decided there's just one thing to do on a sunny spring afternoon--soak up that sun.

With the pressures and worries of their last few weeks of high school over, the seniors awoke the morning of Wednesday, June 3, to their promised skip day. In spite of cloudy skies and fear of rain, three busloads of seniors set out for the Lake of the Woods.

For several years this lake near Mahomet has served as a place for the seniors to have their annual skip day. In fact, this seems to be becoming another U High tradition.

Once at the lake, the class split to go to the various recreational spots. The more hardy souls set out for the golf course, the boys for the eighteen hole course, and the girls for the nine hole course. Boating was another activity that kept many seniors busy but happy. The icy water in the lake was the object of some of the seniors' attention. The majority, however, were content to soak up the sun on the beach or the grassy banks.

'Hello, U High, well, hello, U High. It's so nice to be the class of '64,' chanted the seniors as they filed onto Capen's stage to entertain U High for the last time.

The class skit, 'Alice in Pioneerland,' climaxed the program during which class gifts to the sponsor and the school were announced, the valedictory and salutatory addresses were given, the lamp of knowledge was passed, and the classes moved up to the school hymn.

Joy, Laughter, Sorrow, Tears Mix at Class Night

The class of 1964 solemnly sings their graduation song as they file off the stage.

Seniors Get Diplomas as They Finish Second Level

Sunday, May 31, found over a hundred seniors struggling with long green gowns, caps that just wouldn't stay straight, and tassels that just wouldn't stay out of their eyes. In spite of the rain dripping off the corners of the caps, everyone finally made it to the four o'clock vesper service in Capen. Once there, they heard the Reverend Pragman, pastor of the Christ Lutheran Church in Normal, deliver the address. After informing his audience that the word "baccalaureate" is derived from the word "cow," he spoke on the subject, "God Will Supply Every Need."

The class of '64 had more practice for graduation than any other class in a long, long time. The commencement was to be held in the ISU amphitheatre unless rain intervened, in which case it would be held in Capen. Thus a practice was necessary in each place. And then rain intervened. In Capen Dr. Orville Nothdurft, dean of admissions at Bradley University, told his audience that "Success Was Just Ahead." Then Dr. Lovelass handed out the 102 diplomas, and high school was over for the class of '64.

SECOND SEMESTER HONOR SOCIETY INITIATES: Barry Bartrum, Grace Harwood, Pam Tebrugge, Rebecca Laubaugh, Linda Lyman, Judy Replogle, Jack Iungerich.

Honor Society Grows as Enrollment Rises

Two assemblies were held this year to announce the new members of the Honor Society, a group to honor outstanding students. Short talks were given by active Honor Society members concerning the meaning of membership in the Honor Society. After the talks and the announcements of new members, the new pledges underwent both formal and informal initiations during a week of initiation.

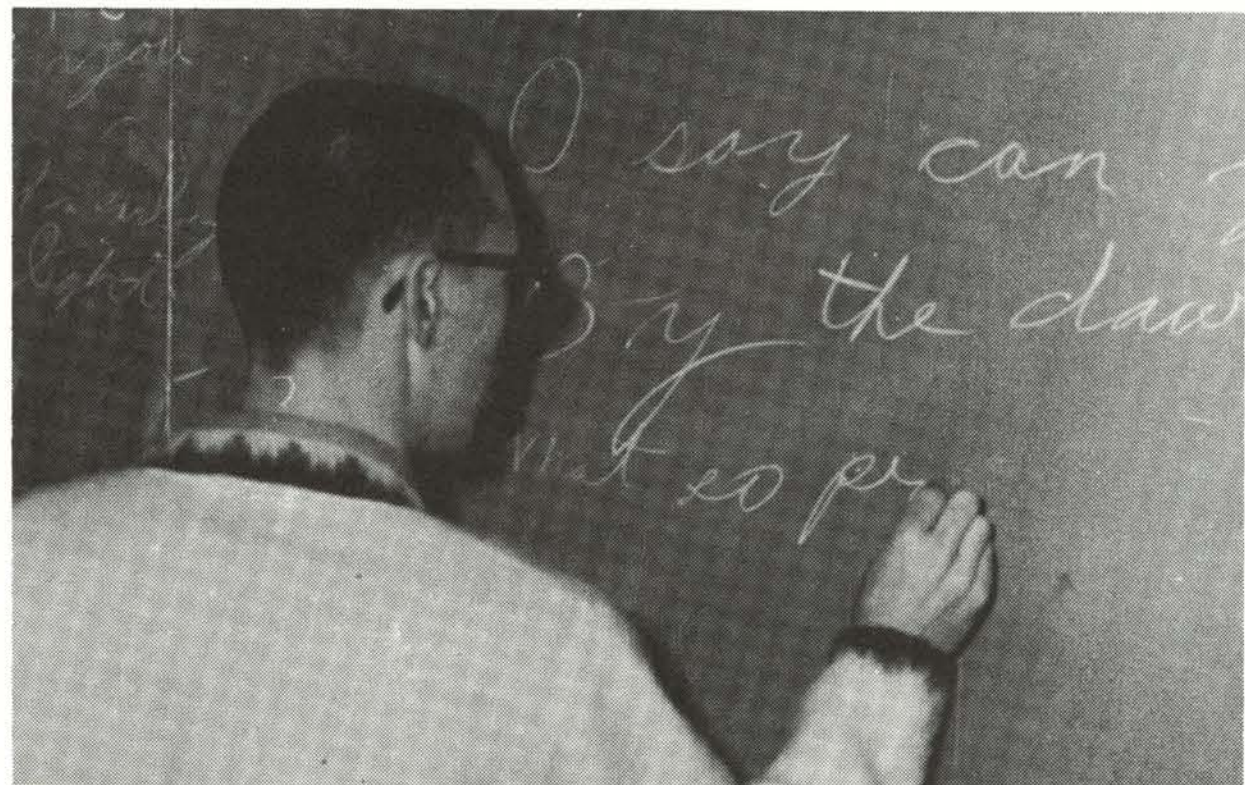

Seniors initiated in the fall of 1963 were Sue Allen, Kay Brown, Rogers Freedlund, Lee Kuhfuss, Diana Mann, Claire Martens, Linda Neubauer, Karen Ogren, Susie Pilant, Maggie White, and Dan Zenor.

Juniors initiated in the spring of 1964 were Barry Bartrum, Grace Harwood, Jack Iungerich, Becky Laubaugh, Linda Lyman, Judy Replogle, and Pam Tebrugge.

Just ask Jackie Griffith: Honor Society members always pay attention in class. Well, almost always.

Tiger Growls at Capen for First Play of year

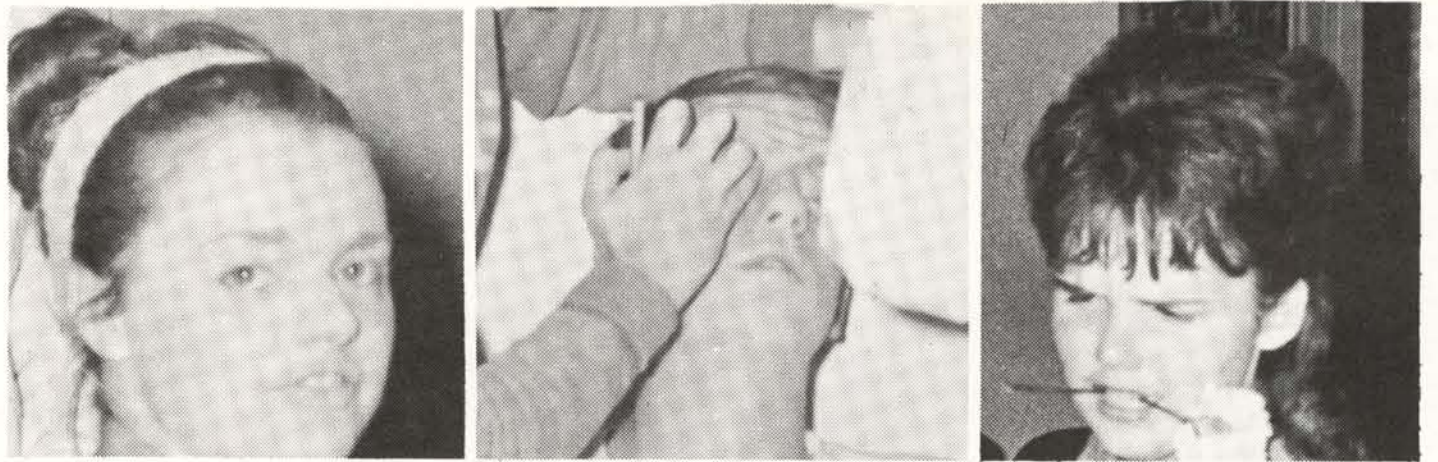

The fall play, "Tiger at the Gates," concerned the events leading to the fall of Troy.

Paris (Mike Davidson), by stealing Helen (Patty Conklin) from her Greek husband, brings the threat of war to Troy.

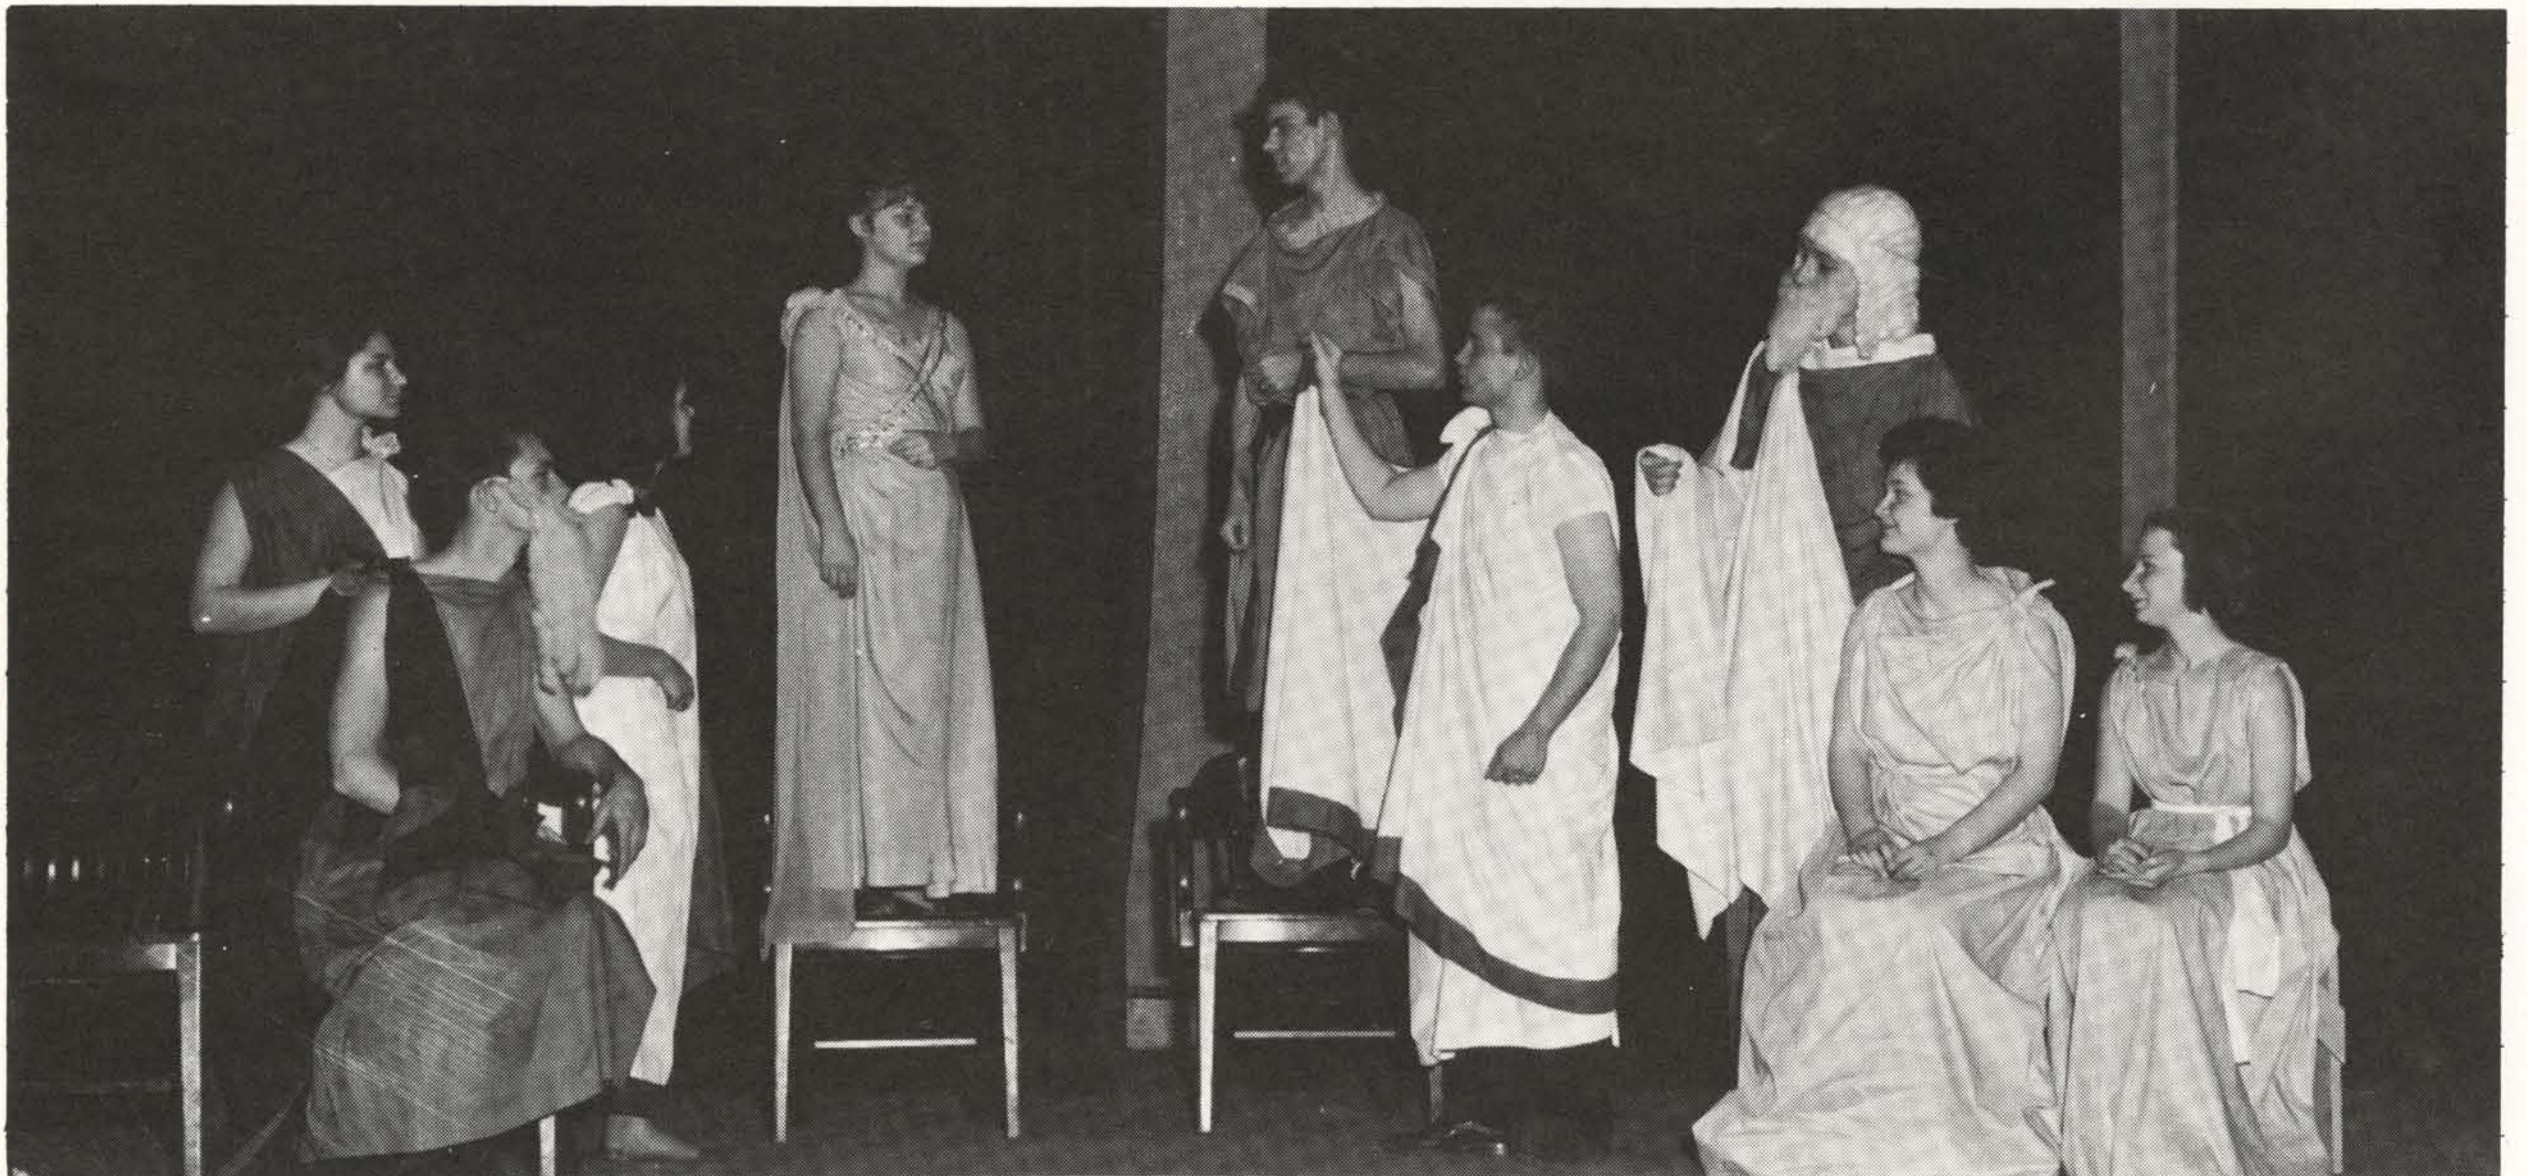

The prophetess, Cassandra (Mimi Smith) foresees the imminent war, but is unable to convince anyone that war is coming. She tries to convince Hector (Tom Jacobs) and his wife Andromache (Dixie Smith) of the pending danger, but they will not accept the news. Despite the attempts of Priam (Terry Oltman), the king of Troy, and Hecuba (Kay Brown), the queen, the war which is to bring the total destruction of Troy begins.

Mimi Smith, Mike Davidson, and Patty Conklin go over it once more.

Helen of Troy, Patty Conklin, is denounced before the Trojans by a warmongering poet, Barry Bartrum.

Tom Jacobs tries some of his selling tactics on small-town girl Eileen, but all he gets is a refusal.

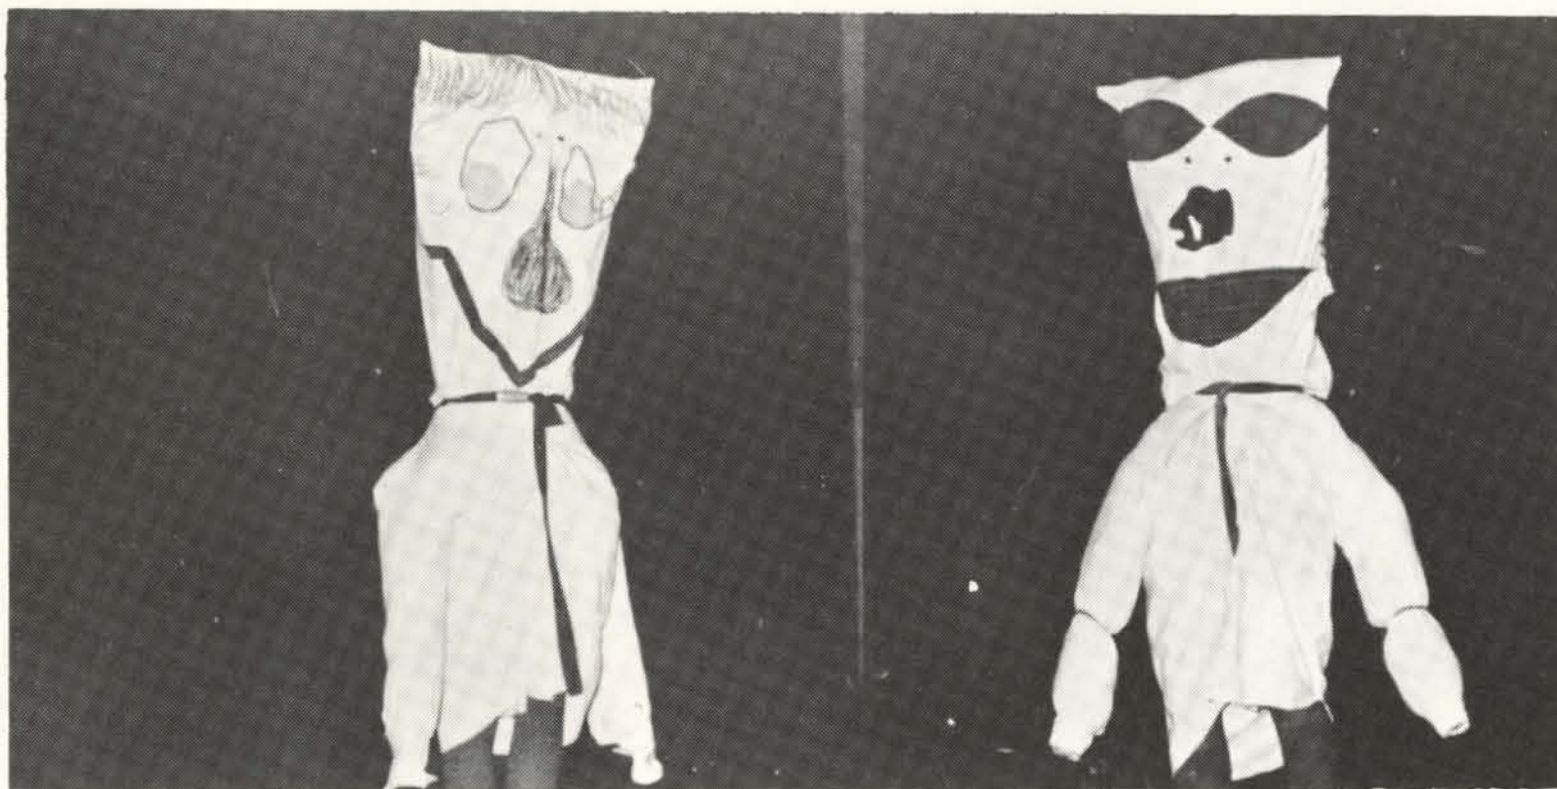

This year's spring production, "My Sister Eileen," a popular Broadway play of a few years ago, involved the adventures of two sisters, Ruth (Linda Neubauer) and Eileen (Patty Brooks), when they go to New York to seek their fortunes. Complications arise in the forms of their landlord, (Roger Wolff), an unemployed football player (Todd McNutt), various suitors (Terry Oltman, Tom Jacobs, and Mike Davidson), six future Brazilian admirals, and the secretary to the Brazilian consul (Vanessa Lucena, our AFS student).

Anything done at U High goes off with a bang. So it was on February 29 with the Variety Show, directed by Mr. Beck.

In spite of a cast on one leg, Todd McNutt conducted the ceremonies with a gaiety and wit common to no other.

Since it was a benefit show to raise money for next year's American Field Service student, it was very fitting that the show start with a talk by this year's AFS student from Brazil, Vany Lucena. The spirit of the Variety Show was felt in the very first number, a colorful and festive Brazilian dance.

The audience applauded the dancing alley cats, eskimos, and U High's own brand of the Beatles.

The high quality of singing talent at U High was proved by a solo, a boys' quartet, a girls' quintet, and a wonderful folk group, the Wayfarers Three. The faculty was not to be outdone, however. Mr. Krause, Mr. Brown, Mr. Templeton, and Dr. Livers should be awarded shaving mugs for their fine performance.

Everyone agreed that the dance combo, the Decrees, had arrived; freshman girls had a dance that was quite a THING; and symphonic choir and their calliope were the cleverest. But, the real hit of the evening was made by Lavetta Meyer, the Cherry Pie Queen, as she awarded Mr. Legg with a cherry cream pie, in the face!

At the NFL state tournament Paul McGinnes and Sue Dunn placed third after eight rounds of elimination involving 47 schools.

In the high school tournament the debate team placed third in the sectional and sixth at state.

Club members participated in tournaments in East Peoria, Champaign, and Normal. Practice debates with Trinity and Springfield sharpened wits and improved techniques of the debaters.

VARSITY DEBATE - Suzy Dunn, Alison Miller, Paul McGinnes, Barry Bartrum.

INDIVIDUAL EVENTS: Barry Bartrum, Patty Brooks, Kay Brown, Jackie Griffith, Rose Marie Sila, Sue Thomas, Paul McGinnes.

Twelve people won honors in speech this year. In the NFL state tournament, Barry Bartrum placed sixth in eight rounds of elimination competition.

Six of the speech club members placed in the high school district competition: Patty Brooks, prose reading; Kay Brown, poetry reading; Barry Bartrum, oratorical declamation; Ted Fagerburg, comedy reading; Jackie Griffith, extemporaneous speaking; and Paul McGinnes, radio speaking.

The contest play, "Objective Case," placed first in the district, third in the sectional.

Actors were Tom Honn, Janet Porter, Paul Humphries, Dixie Smith, Mimi Smith, and Terry Oltman.

Clarion Staff Works in Atmosphere of Confusion

Bedlam again ruled the journalism room, working place of the Clarion staffs. Each of the groups worked on the yearbook three nights a week; perhaps the fact that not all jobs could be peacefully done at one time explains the constant state of confusion. Work for the book started in the summer of 1963 with the layout. After that, there were ads to be sold, making the difference between a passable and an excellent yearbook. Deadlines then became the nightmare of all staff members. They had something to show for all of the work they did, though--this yearbook.

1964 was a year of change for University High's school newspaper, the Clarionette. Editor Grace Harwood, News Editor Jackie Griffith, and Feature Editor Karen Ogren, along with the staff, found themselves working with a larger-paged newspaper, but one bearing the same name. A contest was held to find a new name for the paper with five dollars offered for a winning name. However, even with a choice the students voted to keep "The Clarionette" on their newspaper.

The staff of the Clarionette tried to make the paper "more alive." Along with a new size, the Clarionette worked on some new policies of newswriting.

U High's Major Powell Science Club, under the joint sponsorship of Mr. John Carlock and Mr. Harold Moore, stressed individual projects especially during the past year. Officers who led the club were Claire Martens, president; Bob Belshe, vice president; and Carol Fritcher, secretary-treasurer.

Individual projects were completed by Claire Martens, Bob Belshe, and Malcolm Ross. The growth of albino field corn studies won Claire awards from Westinghouse and General Electric and several scholarship offers. Bob's experiments concerned the syntheses of amino acids and proteins while Malcolm worked with the preparation of aliphatic sulfatic acids.

In conjunction with the experimental biology classes, the club made a field trip in the spring. The trip, highlight of the year's events, was to Indiana's Turkey Run Park.

June Hawthorne, Elaine Reese, Nancy Wallen, Pam Anderson, Winifred Hansen, Bill Sterba.

French Club members spent this year studying the people of France, their language and customs. As a highlight of the year's work, the club combined its efforts to serve the second annual French banquet. The officers for the year were Linda Lyman, president; Cyndie Metcalf, vice president; Sue Remsburg, secretary, and Alison Miller, treasurer.

Band, Orchestra Add a Note to U High's Activities

BAND • Robert Whited, Director

The lower strings find Beethoven's "Fifth Symphony" quite a challenge.

The concert band performed three times, including the February Winter Concert, a concert at Metcalf in March, and the Spring Concert.

At contest time about 40 musicians went to Western Illinois University at Macomb.

With the inspiration of the violin playing of Carol Dallinger, the U High orchestra performed at four concerts during the year.

These included portions of the mid-winter and spring music concerts, an ISSCS concert, and Commencement, all under the direction of Mr. Kuntz. Carol won a superior rating on her violin solo at the state contest in March. Also representing the orchestra at the contest was a string quintet of Carol, Narda Cisco, Charles Clem, JoAnn Harris, and Mary Kuntz.

Vany Brings Feeling of Unity and Friendship

Being an AFS student means more than just coming to the United States to have fun in a different way of life. It has a much deeper meaning. For me, it means a great chance to do something for my people and others. We all know the importance of understanding among people, and we all know that in order to understand people, we have to know them. What better way is there of knowing people than this one, coming to a different country, living with a typical family, and seeing WHY they act as they do?

I have enjoyed this year in Normal, attending U High, not only because I feel that I have contributed a little bit for a better understanding between Brazilians and Americans but also because of the kindness of the U High students and teachers. I want them to know how thankful I am by saying that, no matter how far I will be in the next years, I will never forget anyone in Normal.

Thank you,
Vanessa Lucena

First Semester Council Copes with Study Hall

Student Council again served as the link between the student body and the faculty, as well as the representative body for the students. Activities ranged from the United Fund drive in the fall to Twirp Week in the winter to the AFS drive in the spring. Officers for the 1963-64 council, elected in the spring of 1963, were Bill Soper, president; Sue Dunn, vice president; Margie Schroeder, secretary; and Chi Chi Childers, treasurer.

Homecoming parade plans were discussed and rules made, insuring one of the best Homecoming parades U High has seen.

Like all fund drives at U High, the Council sponsored United Fund Drive met with enthusiasm from the students. A total of $469.91 was raised; the Sophomores coming in first with $197.07.

The Student Council also sponsored the AFS (American Field Service) Variety Show which was one of the biggest successes of the year. A total of $390.00 was made. This money, plus that raised by the Inter-Class competition, will pay for a foreign student to come to U High next year.

After a two-week campaign, the following Student Council officers were elected for next year: Sarah Walker, treasurer; Linda Lyman, secretary; Grace Harwood, vice president, and Jack Iungerich, president.

Student Council members handled problems about study halls, Normal High - U High relations and exams. Council members also attended other schools during the Inter-City visitation day, Council conventions and Inter-City Council meetings.

Pep Club and U Club Promote School Spirit

U High Pep Club members, headed by Sue Smiley, president; Jan Collie, vice president; and Susan Hodges, secretary-treasurer, were once again instrumental in stirring fans to support Pioneer teams in football and basketball throughout the 1963-64 season.

Making victory banners and tags, providing pep assemblies, and selling Homecoming buttons were the main duties carried on by the club to increase school spirit this year. Pep Club was also in charge of organizing pep buses for out-of-town games. All of these trips proved to be very successful.

U Club spent the year in the process of reorganizing. The club's annual initiation and traditional party were put aside until the problems concerning qualifications for membership could be decided.

Cheerleaders Help Spark Pioneers' Victory Spirit

An impressive crowd response, perfect unison, and good sportsmanship were the goals of U High's cheerleaders.

This year the varsity squad ranked high in experience. Margie Schroeder and Candy Butt have been cheerleaders for two years; Gwynn Monti and Linda Ensign for three; Chi Chi Childers, captain, for four:

The animated frosh-soph squad included Margaret Tebrugge, Cyndie Metcalf, Ann Lyman, and Rachel Laubaugh.

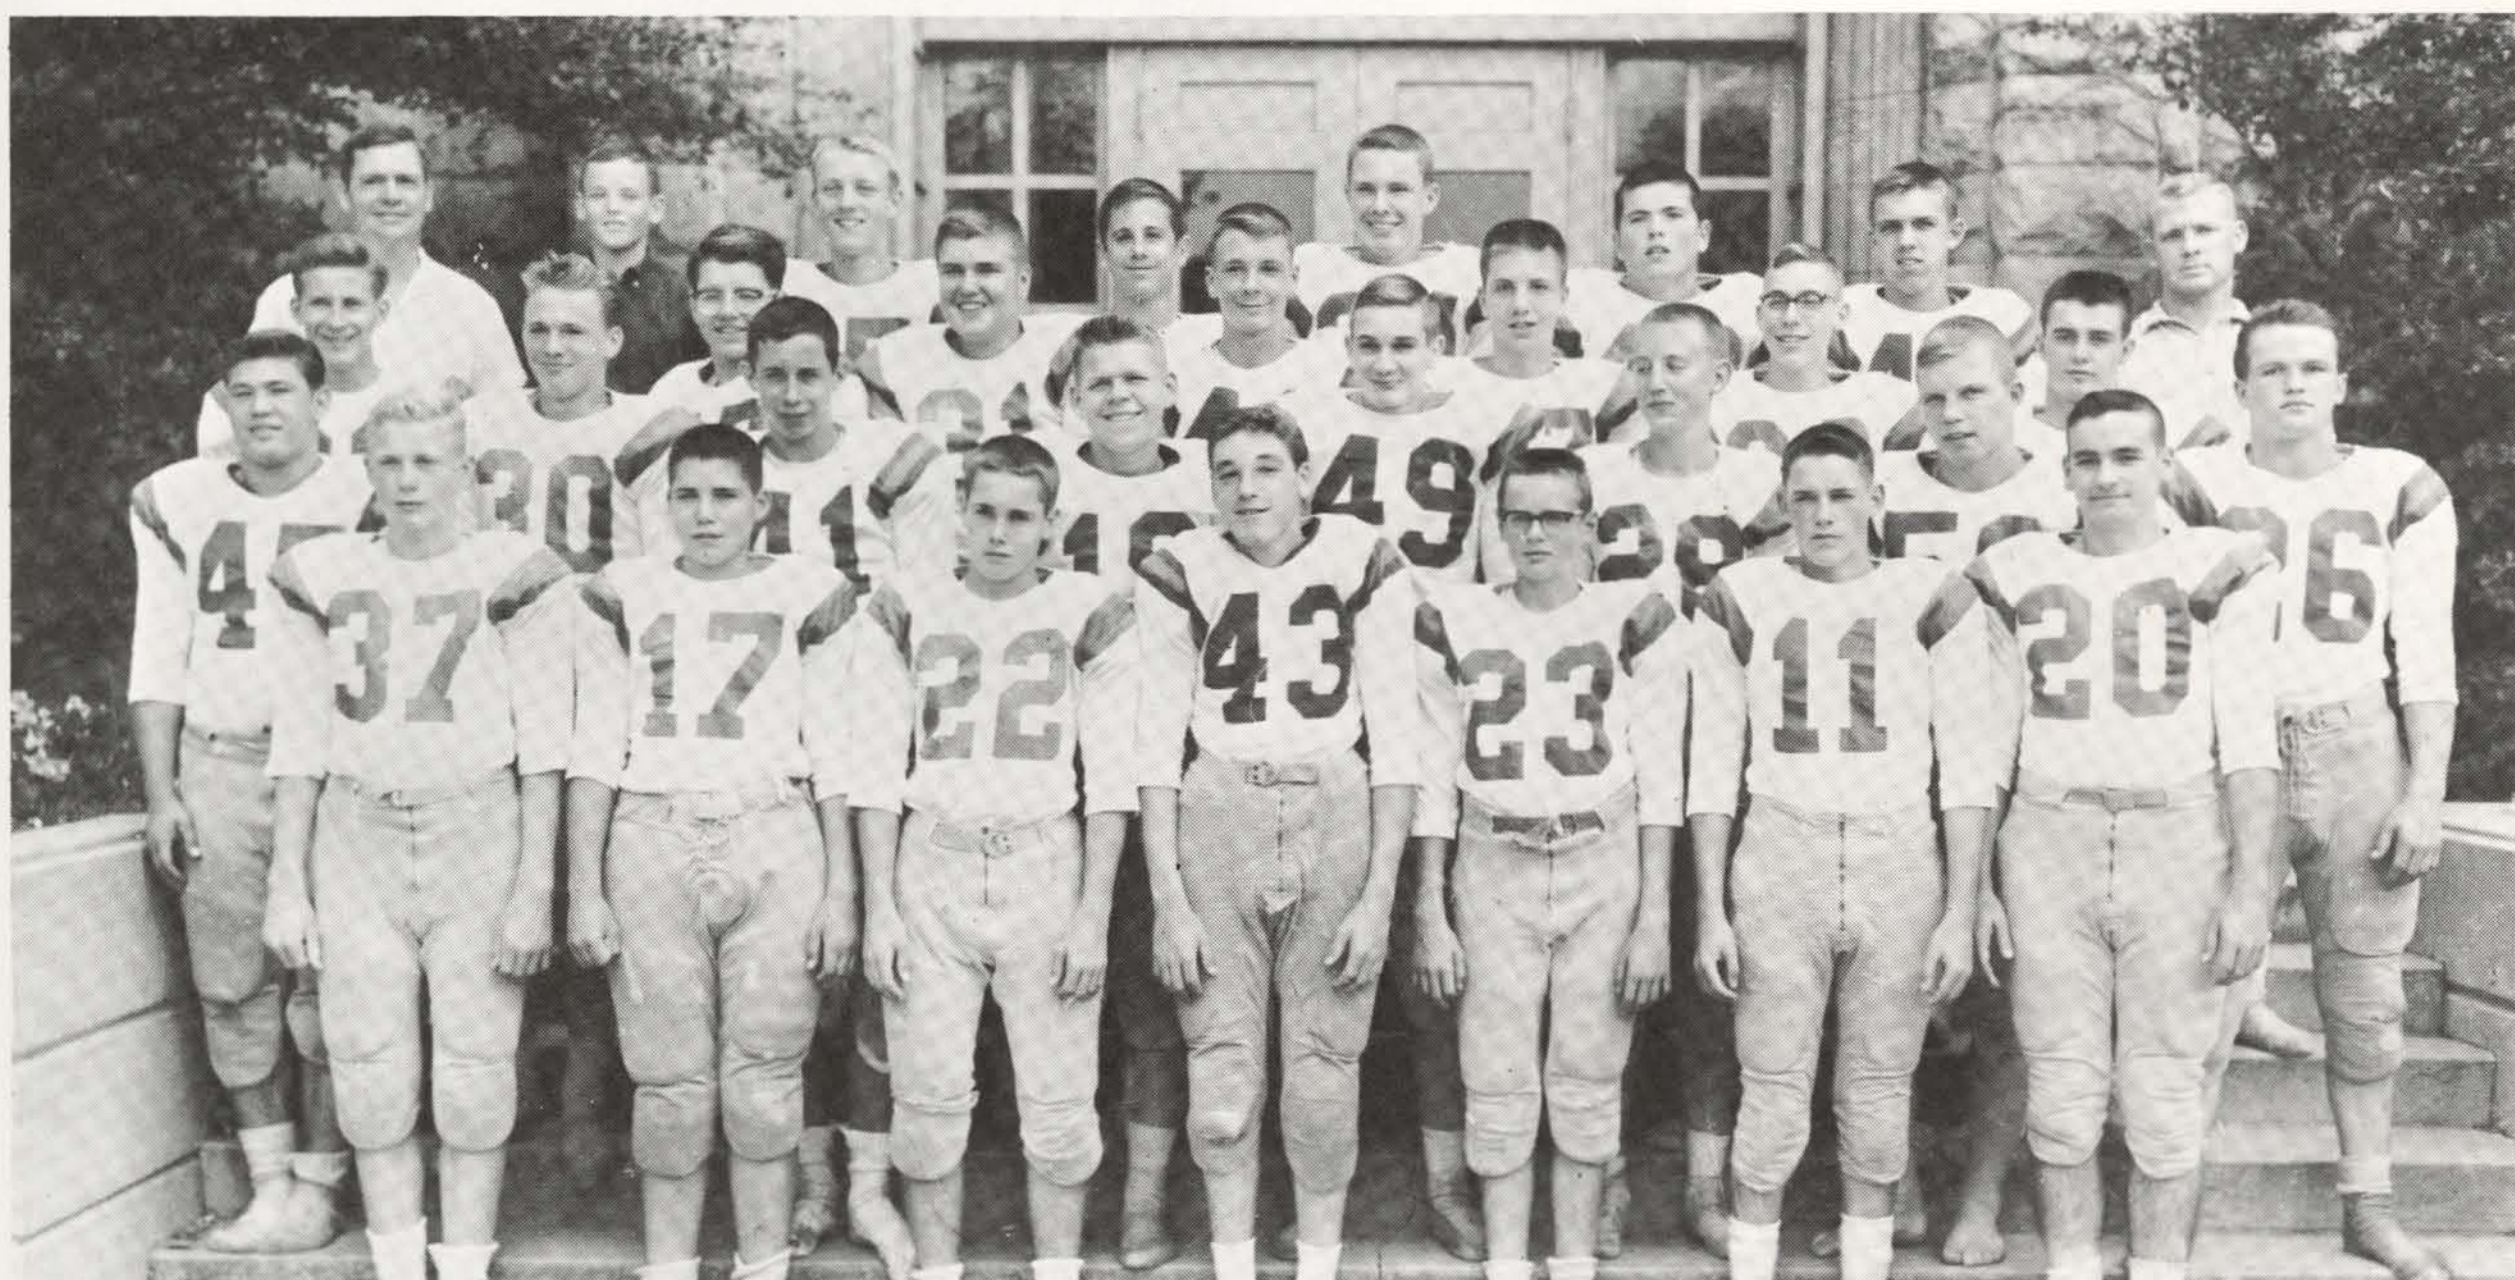

The three lively freshman cheerleaders were Vivian Collie, Nancy Rosenthal, and Emily Romersberger.

By all appearances University High is to stay up for a while in the cornbelt, at least by indications of this year's Frosh-Soph football team. With a 3-1 record, the Pioneers' Fr.-Soph team showed both a well-rounded offense and a tough defense, averaging nearly three touchdowns a game to the opponent's two.

The Freshman class seemed to have brought with it a bunch of hopefuls, notably Jerry Schroeder as a halfback, rangy Cal Hubbard as end, and Ron Beilstein showing promise as a guard and linebacker.

The Sophomores, too, have their outstanding individuals. Linebacker Dale Neal, quarterback Ken Philpot, halfback Ron McMahon, and Phil Jarke, tackle, all helped greatly during the Frosh-Soph season along with playing varsity games.

With this year's hopeful appearance, the next years at University High show great promise on both the Cornbelt and the Intercity gridirons.

A group of Pioneer freshmen headed by Cal Hubbard move in to make the tackle in the Chiddix game.

1963 was the year when U High's football hopes were finally realized. After five losing seasons, the Pioneers ended the season with a record of 4-3-1.

The high point of the season was the Homecoming victory over Clinton in which the team rallied four times to win, 32-26.

Gary Walden was elected the team's most valuable player, and he and Rogers Freedlund were named as honorary captains. Seniors receiving letters were the captains, Gary Gimmetad, John Goff, Jim Monninger, Harold Schaefer, North Shirley, Bob Smith, and Denny Whitworth.

The Pioneer tankmen found the water a little choppy this year. The swimmers could gain only one victory and one tie in ten meets. However, coached by Dr. Milton Weisbecker, they placed a respectable sixth out of twenty teams in the district meet.

Bill Soper broke his district record in the 200 yard individual medley with a time of 2:10.9.

Lettermen include graduating seniors Terry Garbe, Neal Prince, and Soper, and underclassmen Brock Butts, John Rilett, Jack Iungerich, Mike Legg, Tom Douglass, and Ron Hage.

Basketball at U High is on a definite upward trend, and this year's Fresh-Soph team is one of the leaders.

The young Pioneers finished the season with a 19-3 record. They finished second in the Hartsburg-Emden Tournament, losing a one point overtime decision to Deer Creek Mackinaw.

A balanced scoring attack was headed by Mike Mogg, Ron Goben, Ken Philpot and Jim Hodge. Freshmen players Cal Hubbard and Norm Neisthiemer provided valuable help when Eric Larson moved up to varsity.

The best basketball record since 1947--that is what the team's 17-9 mark meant to U High.

The championship trophy in the Monticello tournament highlighted the Christmas holidays and boosted the Pioneers to a 10-2 early season record before a slump set in.

That slump, due partly to the injury that benched Tom Taulbee for the season, ruined the team's chances for any other championships. However, the scoring output of Bernie Lewis brought U High out of its slump and enabled the team to win six of its last nine contests.

U High took a fourth place finish in the Corn Belt with a 4-6 mark and settled for third in the Intercity race at 1-2. Two wins over arch-rival NCHS were especially pleasing.

Lewis, with a 17.1 average, won the CBC and Intercity scoring titles. Senior lettermen include Roger Doman, Dave Nierstheimer, Jerry West and Dan Zenor.

Despite all Tremont efforts, Tom Taulbee goes up and slips one in, scoring two points for the Pioneers.

The matmen finished their season with a satisfactory record, considering that they had lost many of last year's lettermen.

In both the Corn Belt Conference and in the district they placed fourth. Two boys, Todd McNutt and North Shirley, qualified at the district for the sectional, where North won fourth place.

Many new faces appeared on the mat horizon this year. The new freshmen seemed to take a great interest in the sport of wrestling. Although small, they made fine showings, with five qualifying for letters. They are Jim Bleistein, Dave Fitchorn, Jim Heintzman, Trenton March, and Asmat Yousri. Upperclassmen are Ed Deutsch, John Baker, Todd McNutt, John Peaks, Dave Raney, and North Shirley.

Todd McNutt looks his opponent straight in the eye as he charges in an attempt to get a takedown.

This past season the golf team ran into bad luck, losing 13 matches without a single victory. Hampered by a lack of experience, the team finished with the worst record in several years. Starting the year with two lettermen, the team gained experience and at the season's close was playing fairly good golf. The Pioneers finished last in the Corn Belt conference meet, nearly beating fifth place Clinton. Turning in the best individual performance was Harold Schaffer, who finished in a tie for seventh place.

Receiving letters were returning lettermen Roger Marlow and Mark Hubbard and first year men Schaffer, Scott Neeley, and Bob Ogren. Hubbard, Neeley, and Ogren will all return next year. Other members of the team were Mike Hager, senior; Bill Loeseke, Russ Middleton, juniors; Russ Arnold, John Campbell, sophomores, and Steve Bishop, freshman.

Rogers Freedlund sprints toward victory at a track meet at Normal Community.

The U High tracksters enjoyed another fine season this year under the guidance of Coach Butts. Although the Pioneers failed to win the Corn Belt, they came back with a strong showing in the Intercity.

bettered. In addition to second places in the Corn Belt and Intercity, the Pioneers also picked up a trophy for finishing third in the Normal Relays.

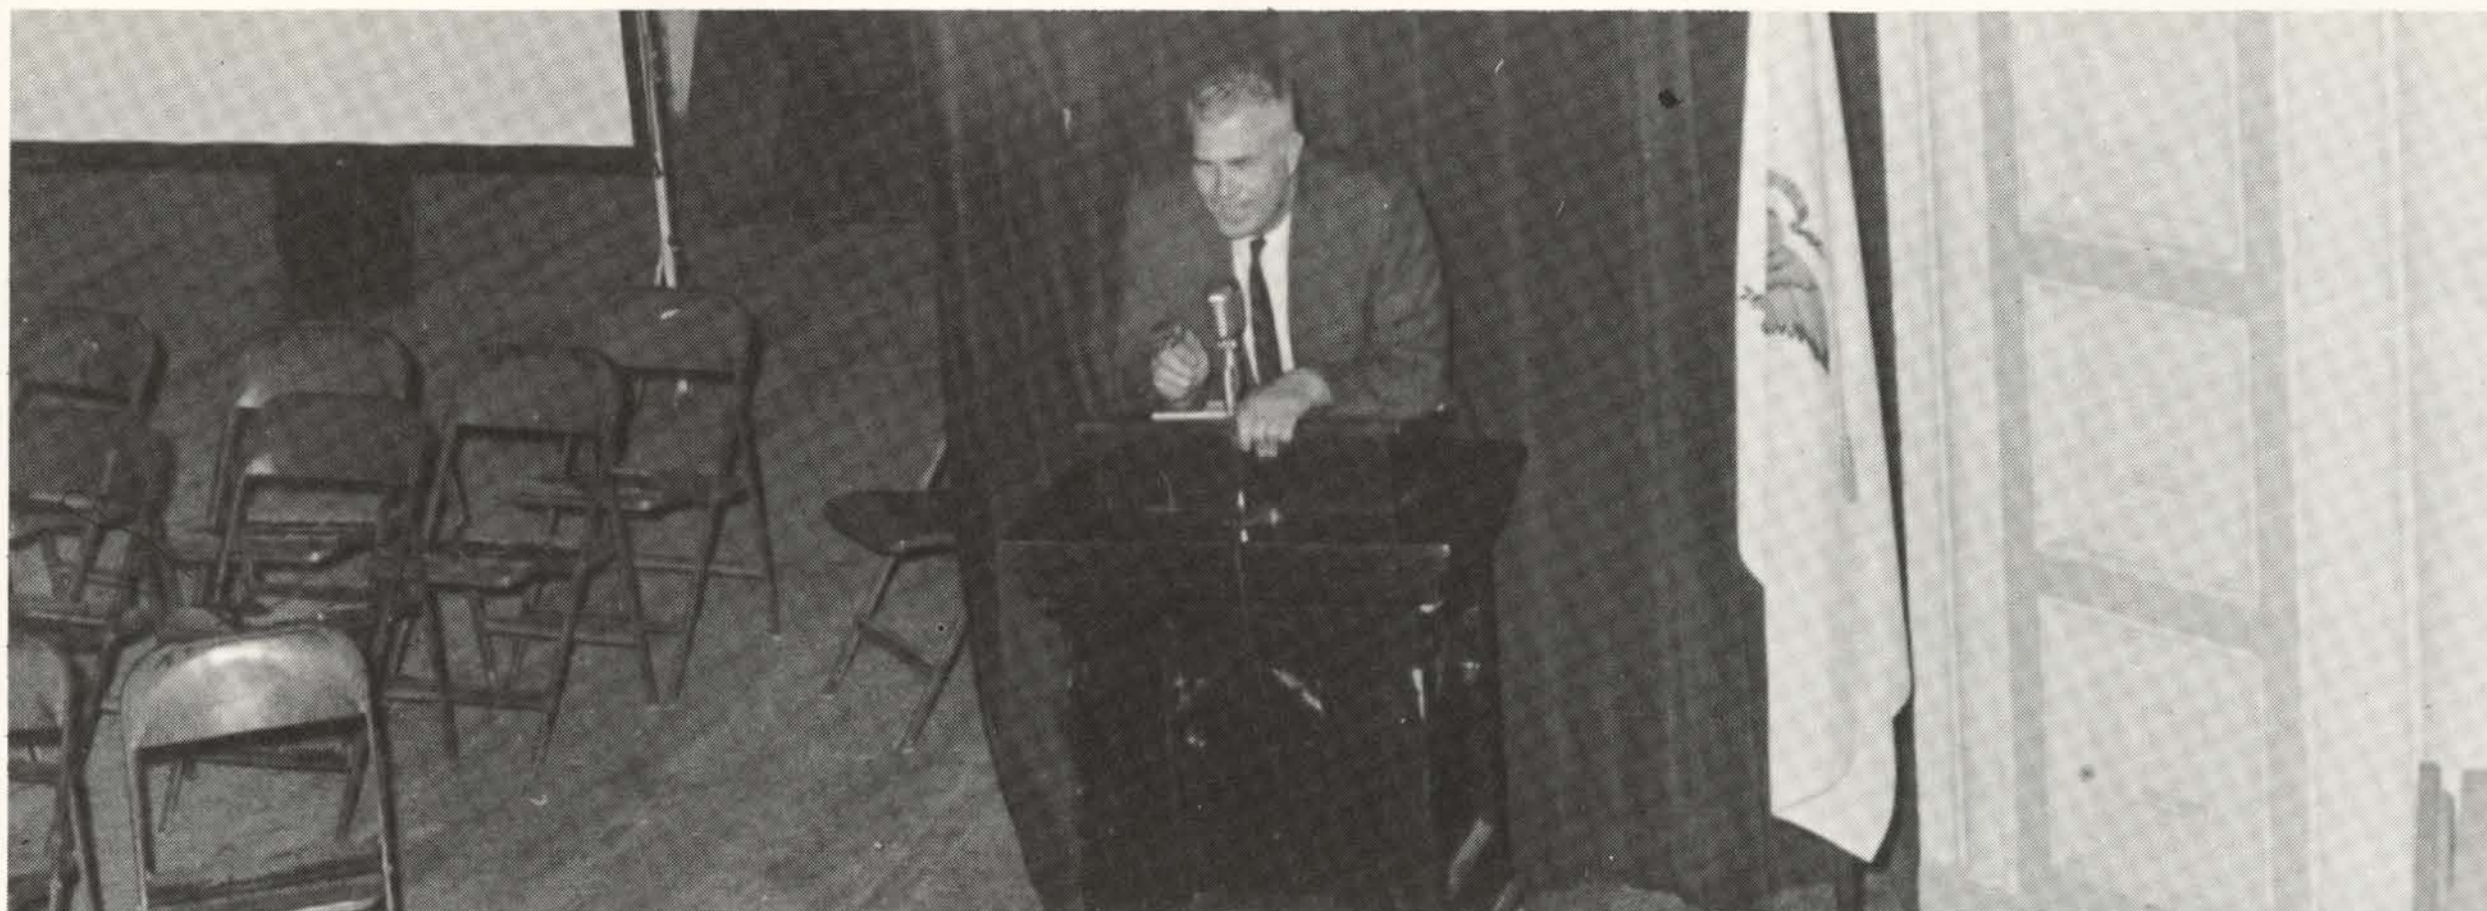

However, U High is losing one of its most valuable team members this season. Coach Butts is leaving to accept a coaching position at Millikin University. Although the track team shows a good deal of promise for the future, our coach will be sorely missed.

Mr. Butts 'Graduates' with Seniors--with Honors

Through Mr. Butts' friendliness to everyone, his personal interest in the welfare of the student body, and his concern for the sportsmanship and honesty which our athletic teams and students possess, our coach has won the respect and admiration of every U High student. We'll always remember the desire he has instilled in us through his own personal example: THE WILL TO WIN.

MR. BUTTS IN ACTION--Above: Goodbye, U High; You bet we have a tremendous track team; Pin him! Get well soon, you hear? Right above: Study hall--a good time to think through problems. Right: There was always encouragement from the bench when Mr. Butts was there.

Bill Soper, one of six seniors on the baseball team, takes his stance at U High's "home" field, ISSCS.

The baseball Pioneers finished the 1964 season with seven wins and eight losses. Two key victories over Intercity champ Bloomington were especially rewarding. Other marks of the campaign were a third place finish in the Corn Belt conference with a 5-5 record and a number three finish in the Intercity with 3-3.

Faculty

Moving Well Requires an Organized Administration

A new high school means many things to many people. To the staff of the administration this year, it meant WORK. On top of his regular duties as principal, Dr. Lovelass found himself involved in countless meetings to plan each aspect of the new building with an advisory committee composed of U High faculty and others.

As the 1964 school year closed and plans were launched in their final stages, everyone looked ahead to January, 1965, when the actual moving should be completed.

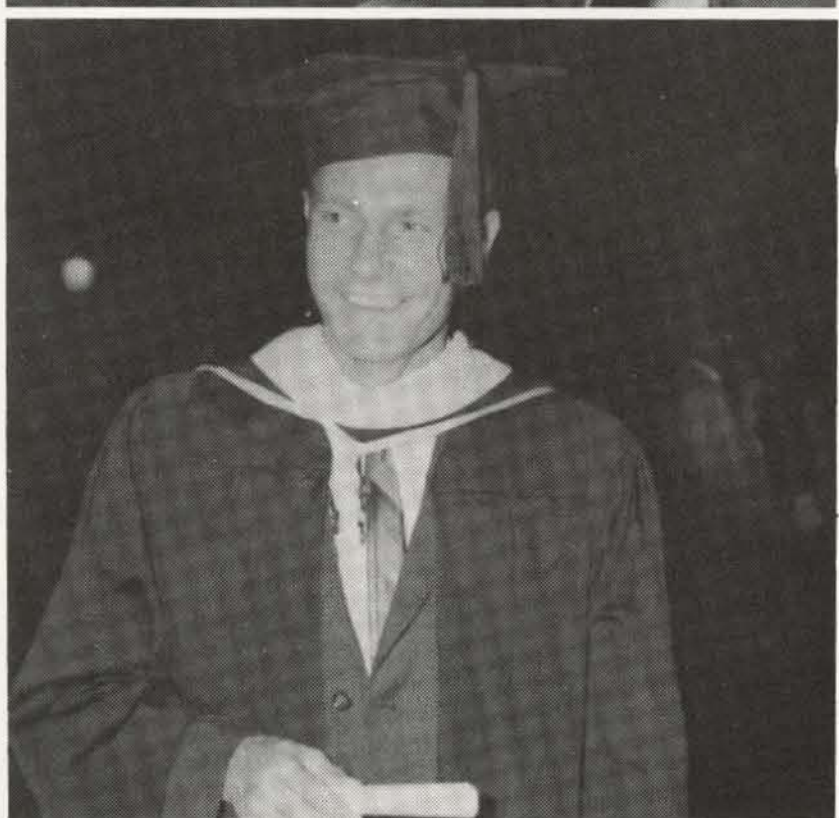

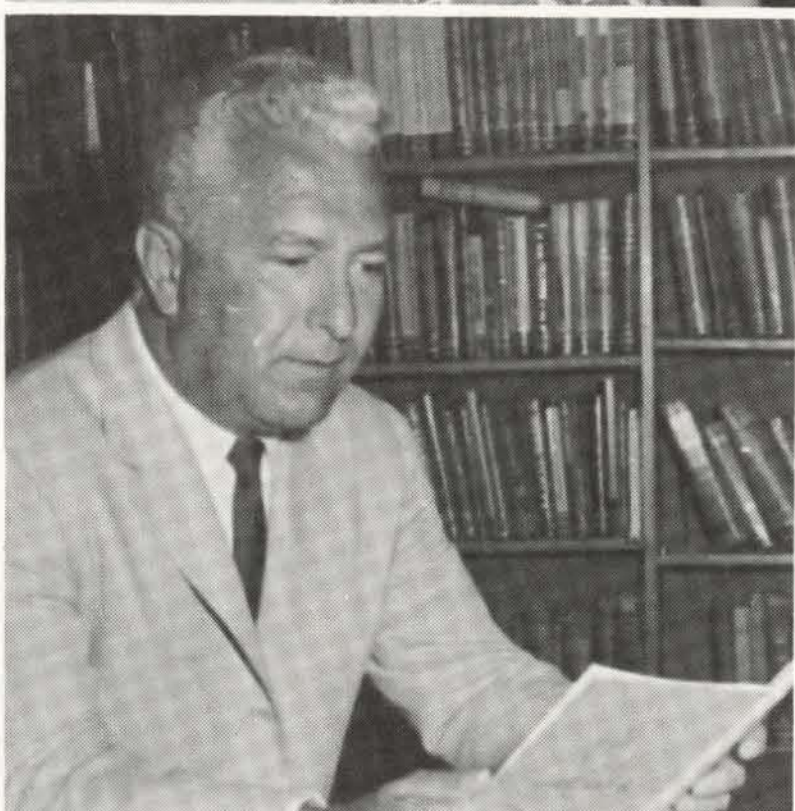

Miss Huggins and Mr. Legg have been adapting the old scheduling system to the new building.

Mrs. Efford and Mrs. Halsema, who do all the record-keeping for the school, had to take inventory of everything from wastebaskets to typewriters that must be ordered for the new school.

Foreign Language Department Moves, Expands

Ever wanted an hour period in the lounge every day? French classes taught by Dr. Levengood and Mrs. D'Abbracci were in a new oval set-up in the lounge that kept students alert. This was just one of the changes in the French program this year. Dr. Adam Levengood replaced Mrs. Mini, who was not able to teach for health reasons. Dr. Patrick Tarrant also joined the staff to teach French III. The ALM, or Audio Lingual Materials, method of teaching the language was introduced.

Many U High students mingled with ISU students as they took advantage of college classes in French, German, Spanish, and Latin.

The foreign language faculty experienced a change of scene with a move of offices to Edwards Hall. The Schroeder Hall language laboratory came completely under high school use.

Four New Teachers Join English Department

"They Walk Together in the Dark," a poem about Abraham Lincoln and John F. Kennedy, won a special award and $25 from the Illinois Historical Society for Senior Karen Ogren. Lincoln also proved to be good subject material for Claire Martens, who took an identical prize for an article in the February issue. Thirty-three other seniors from Miss Stroud's English IV classes also had poems published, and twenty-eight had essays accepted.

Seniors were not the only ones who wrote prize material this year. Junior Grace Harwood placed first in the McLean County UN contest with an essay, "What the UN Means to Me," winning a trip to New York to visit the UN. Amy Phelps, a three-year graduate, won second place.

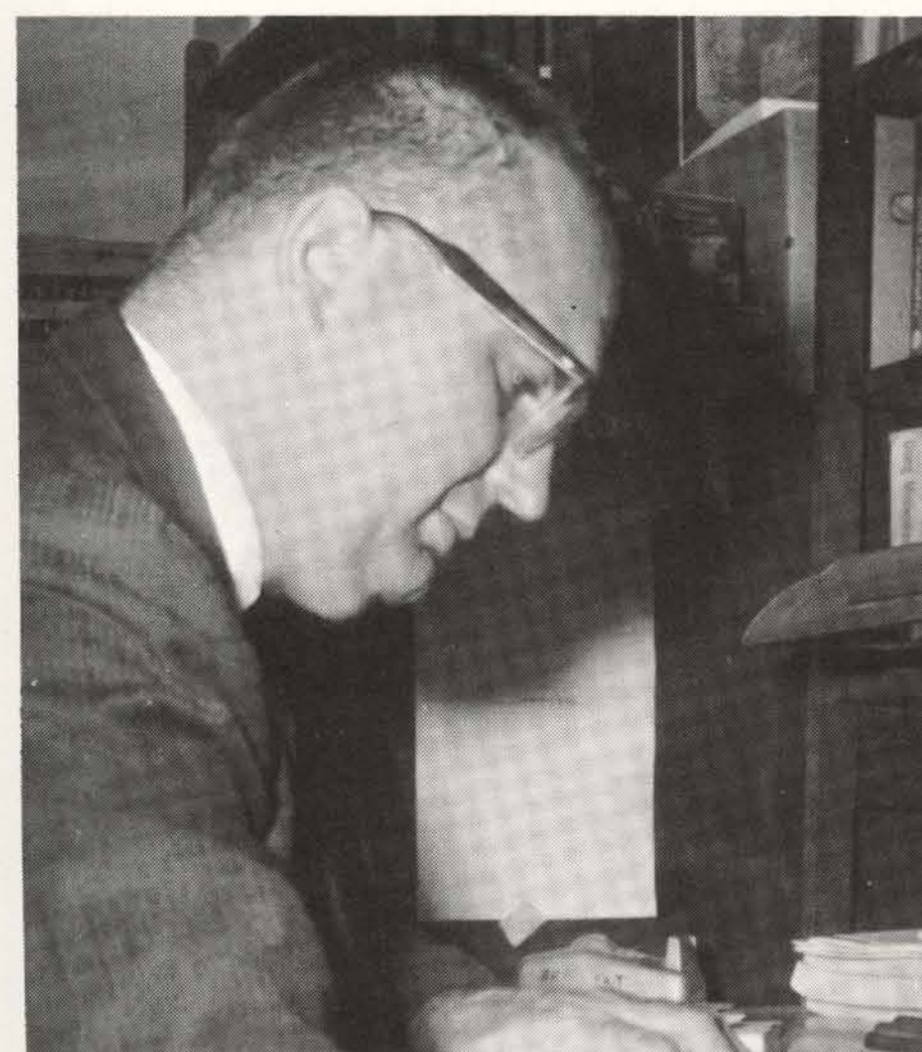

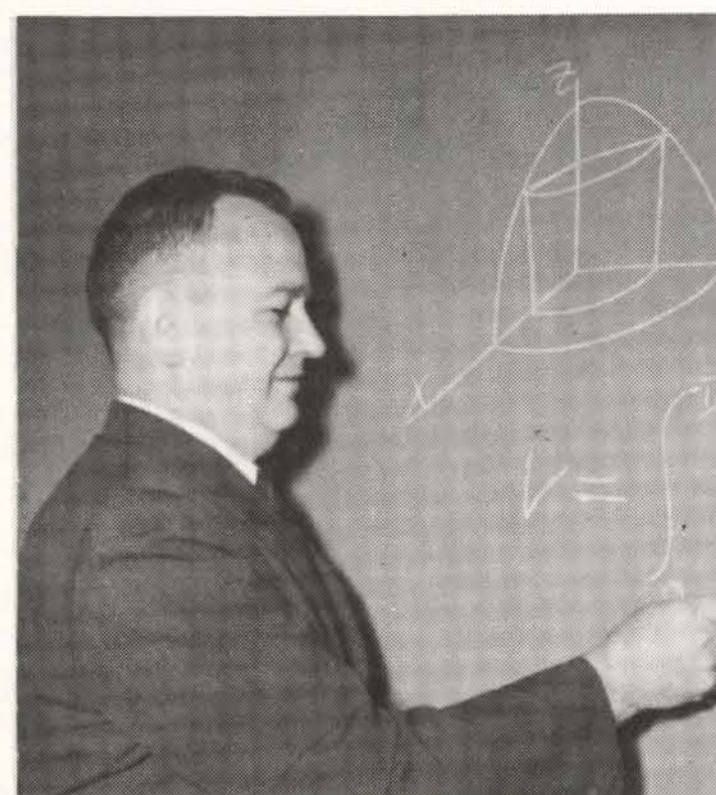

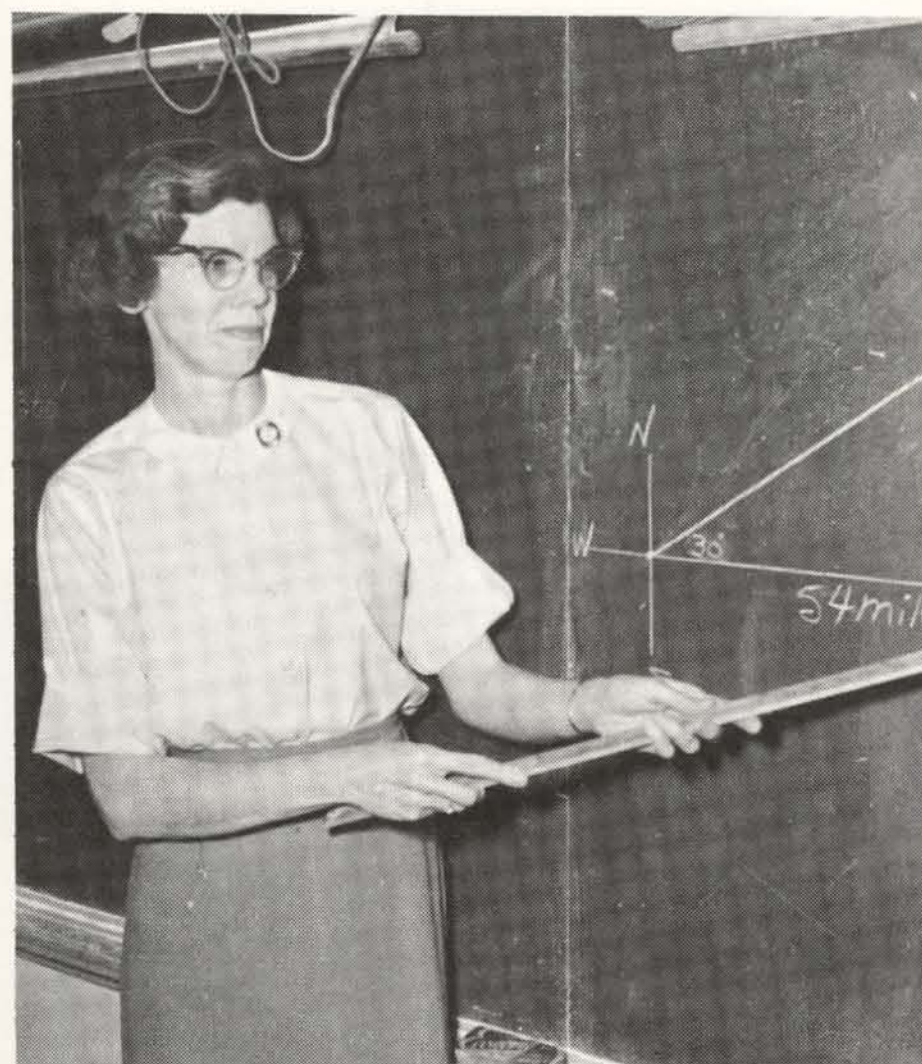

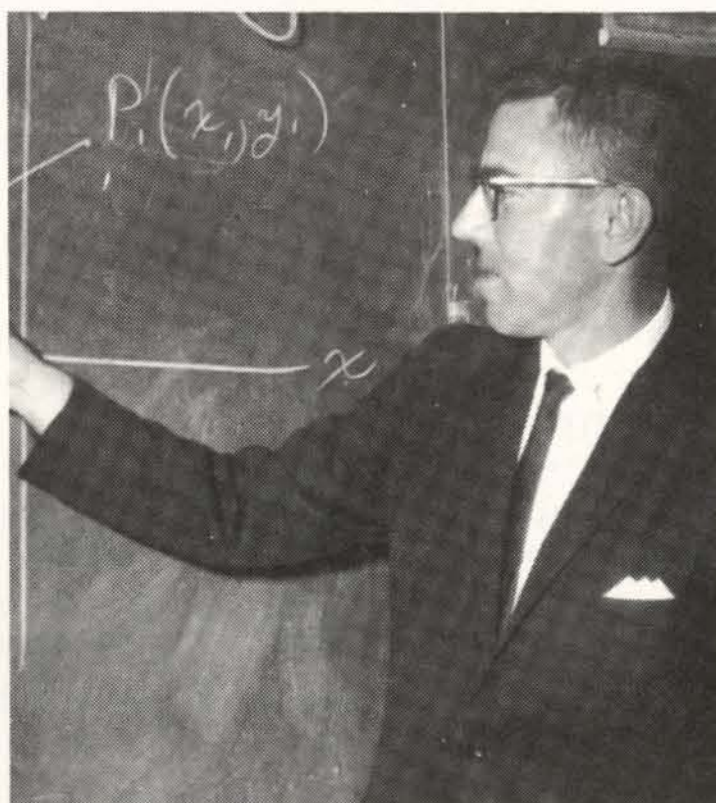

Although they had no winning essays, English I students did have four new teachers.

COLUMN I: Mr. Richard Albert, English I, II; Miss Ruth Stroud, English IV; Mrs. Louise Pilch, English I, II, III; Mr. Perry Proctor, English I; COLUMN II: Mrs. Eileane Fielding, English I, II, Mr. Douglas Nietzsche, English I; Mr. Don Templeton, English III, Pre-college Grammar, Journalism; Mr. Robert Brome, English I, III; Mr. Peter Parmantie, English II.

Math Teachers Keep Up with Modern Math

This was the third year of modern math at U High, but some of the teachers changed courses. Mr. Carroll taught geometry, Mr. Eckert had elementary algebra and general math, Mr. Krause taught elementary algebra and geometry, Mr. Brown instructed elementary algebra and senior math classes, and Miss Baucom taught general math, advanced algebra, and trigonometry classes.

The annual event of the upper math classes was the math contest sponsored by the Mathematics Association of America. Sixty U High students participated in the contest and placed the school at the eighty-second percentile when compared with other schools in Illinois. First place winner was Martha MacDuffee, senior; Claire Martens, also a senior, second; and Larry Stahly, a sophomore, third.

COLUMN I: Mr. Conrad Carroll, Geometry; Miss Adrian Baucom, Trigonometry, General Math; Mr. Albert Eckert, General Math, Algebra; COLUMN II: Mr. Lynn Brown, Algebra; Mr. Gayle Krause, Geometry, Algebra; Mr. Francis Brown, College Math; a student teacher helps with a difficult problem.

Business, Home Ec. Prepare Students for Later Life

Who has ever heard of studying set theory in a biology class? Or who has heard of chemists observing a burning candle?

In all branches of the science department this year, the trend was toward a newer, more modern course of study to give students a better picture of the principles and concepts involved in modern science.

In biology, where, according to the teachers, the goal is "to introduce new ideas and new materials constantly," students found themselves studying modern algebra as an aid to understanding biological concepts.

One of the sections of traditional first-year chemistry was replaced by a course based on laboratory work.

This year's physics classes spent less time studying traditional mechanical physics and more time studying atomic physics and electronics.

Experimental Chemistry Is Added to Science

Business students found several new staff members in the department this year. Mrs. Murphy, shorthand and typing; Mr. Knofla, bookkeeping, typing and general business; and Mrs. Blunk, office practice, were the newcomers. The familiar face of Mrs. Benjamin was seen in consumer economics, business law, and typing classes.

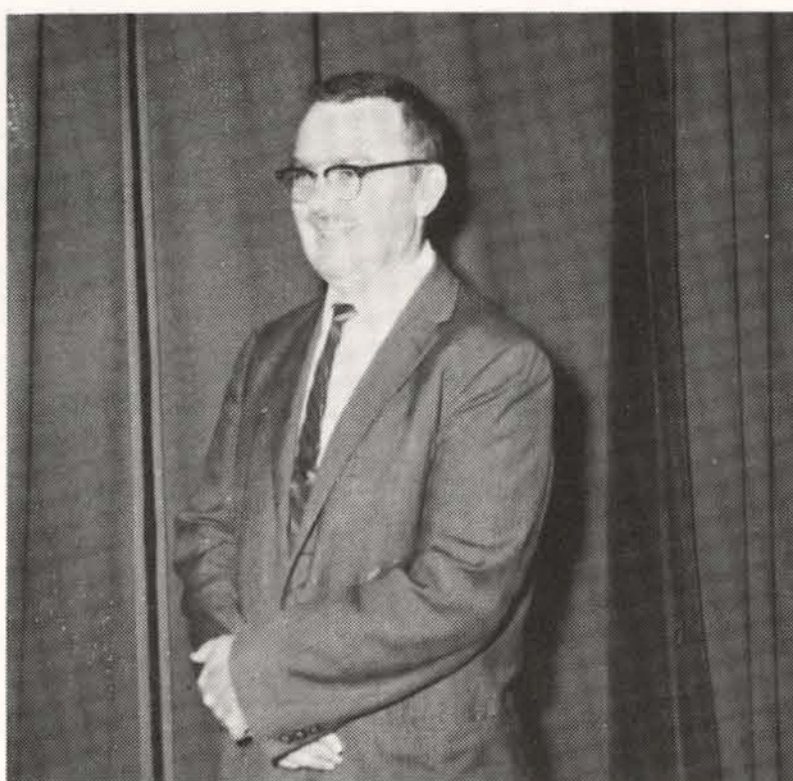

Fresh, delicious aromas drifted through the halls of U High as the home economics department cooked up a storm. The girls' tantalizing dishes were supervised by Mrs. Bradford and Mrs. Jackson, a new member of the staff. She replaced Mrs. Upton who left the department after the first semester to raise her new baby. Activities sponsored by the department were the Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow contest, which was won by Sue Allen; a cherry pie baking contest in which Lavetta Meyer placed third in the state.

Speech, Music, Art Add Fun to School Life

Both Mr. Fischer and Mr. Beck are planning for the speech department in the new U High. The department will have its own practice rooms (where sophomores may practice their final speeches for the required course), debate file, and tape recorders.

During the year the U High music department entertained at a number of concerts. The band, orchestra, and three choruses presented a mid-winter and a spring concert. Mr. Carter, chorus director, joined the staff, which also includes Mr. Kuntz and Mr. Whited, the orchestra and band directors.

U High's art department is very proud of its curriculum available to students. Three years are offered to give the art student an opportunity to work in every phase of art during a high school career. Mr. Ruud instructs all three classes.

COLUMN I: Mr. Roy Beck, Speech, Dramatics; Mrs. Carl Dallinger, Speech; Mr. Ray Fischer, Speech, Debate; COLUMN II: Mr. Lowell Kuntz, Orchestra; Mr. John Carter, Choruses; Mr. Robert Whited, Band; Mr. Thomas Ruud, Art.

Two Innovations Highlight Year in Social Science

This year the social science department once again offered courses in history, civics, and government. Courses in geography and psychology were offered by their respective departments.

Economics was offered for the first time in several years. The course was an analytical one, attempting to acquaint the student with economic concepts and tools. The purpose of the course was to correct the misconceptions that most high school students have about economics, and to teach students to identify and distinguish analytical statements, policy statements, and value judgments.

Something else new was the government class's decision to participate in the mock Republican convention held at ISU.

COLUMN I: Mr. Charles Gray, Government, World History; Miss Frances Alexander, U.S. History; Mr. Milton Redman, U.S. History, Economics; COLUMN II: Miss Alice Eikenberry, Vocational Civics; Mr. David Livers, Psychology, Counselor. Mr. Kermit Laidig, Geography; World History class enjoys seeing teachers in robes.

Ind. Arts Moves to Turner; P. E. Adds Ping Pong

Physical education is a vital part of University High School's curriculum. Students participate in such activities as volleyball, archery, basketball, softball, golf, and modern dance.

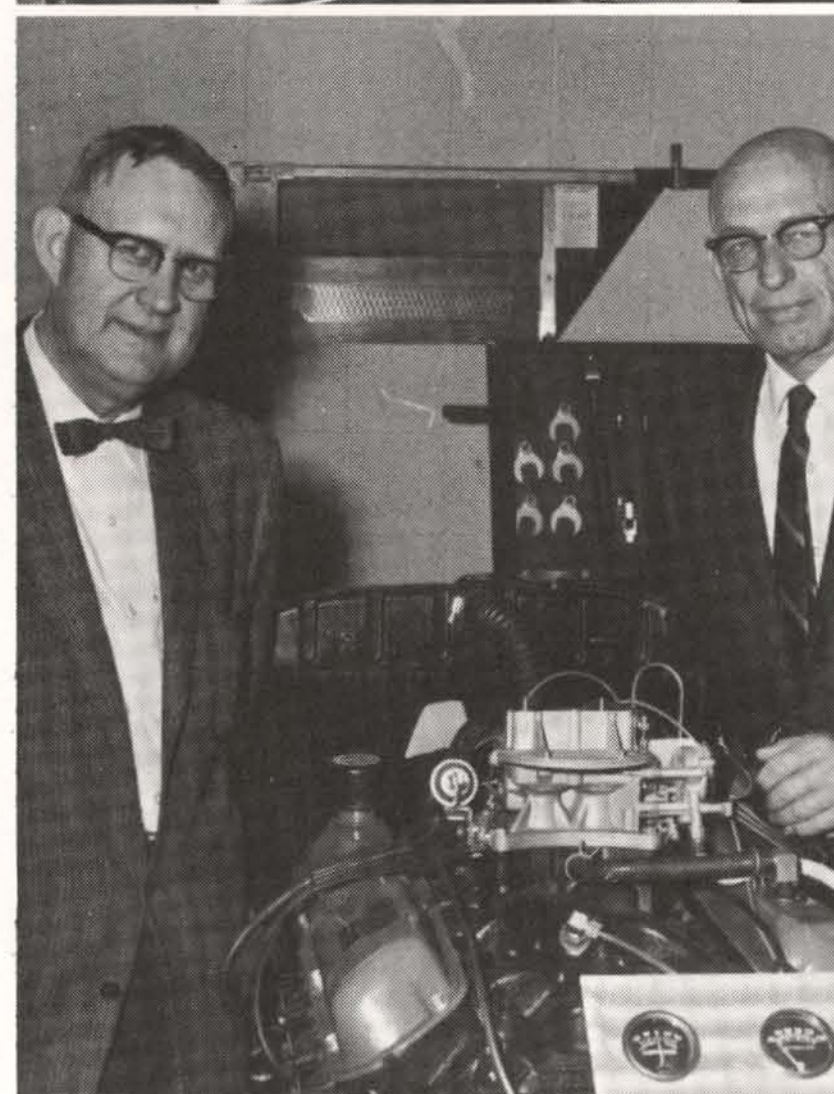

A new feature this year was the extra-curricular table tennis tournament.

The sophomore girls went on a camping trip to Lake Bloomington in early May. Not only did they have fun, but they put the campcraft knowledge they had acquired in class to use.

This year the addition of Turner Hall to the ISU campus also added complications to the schedules of those persons taking and teaching industrial arts courses.

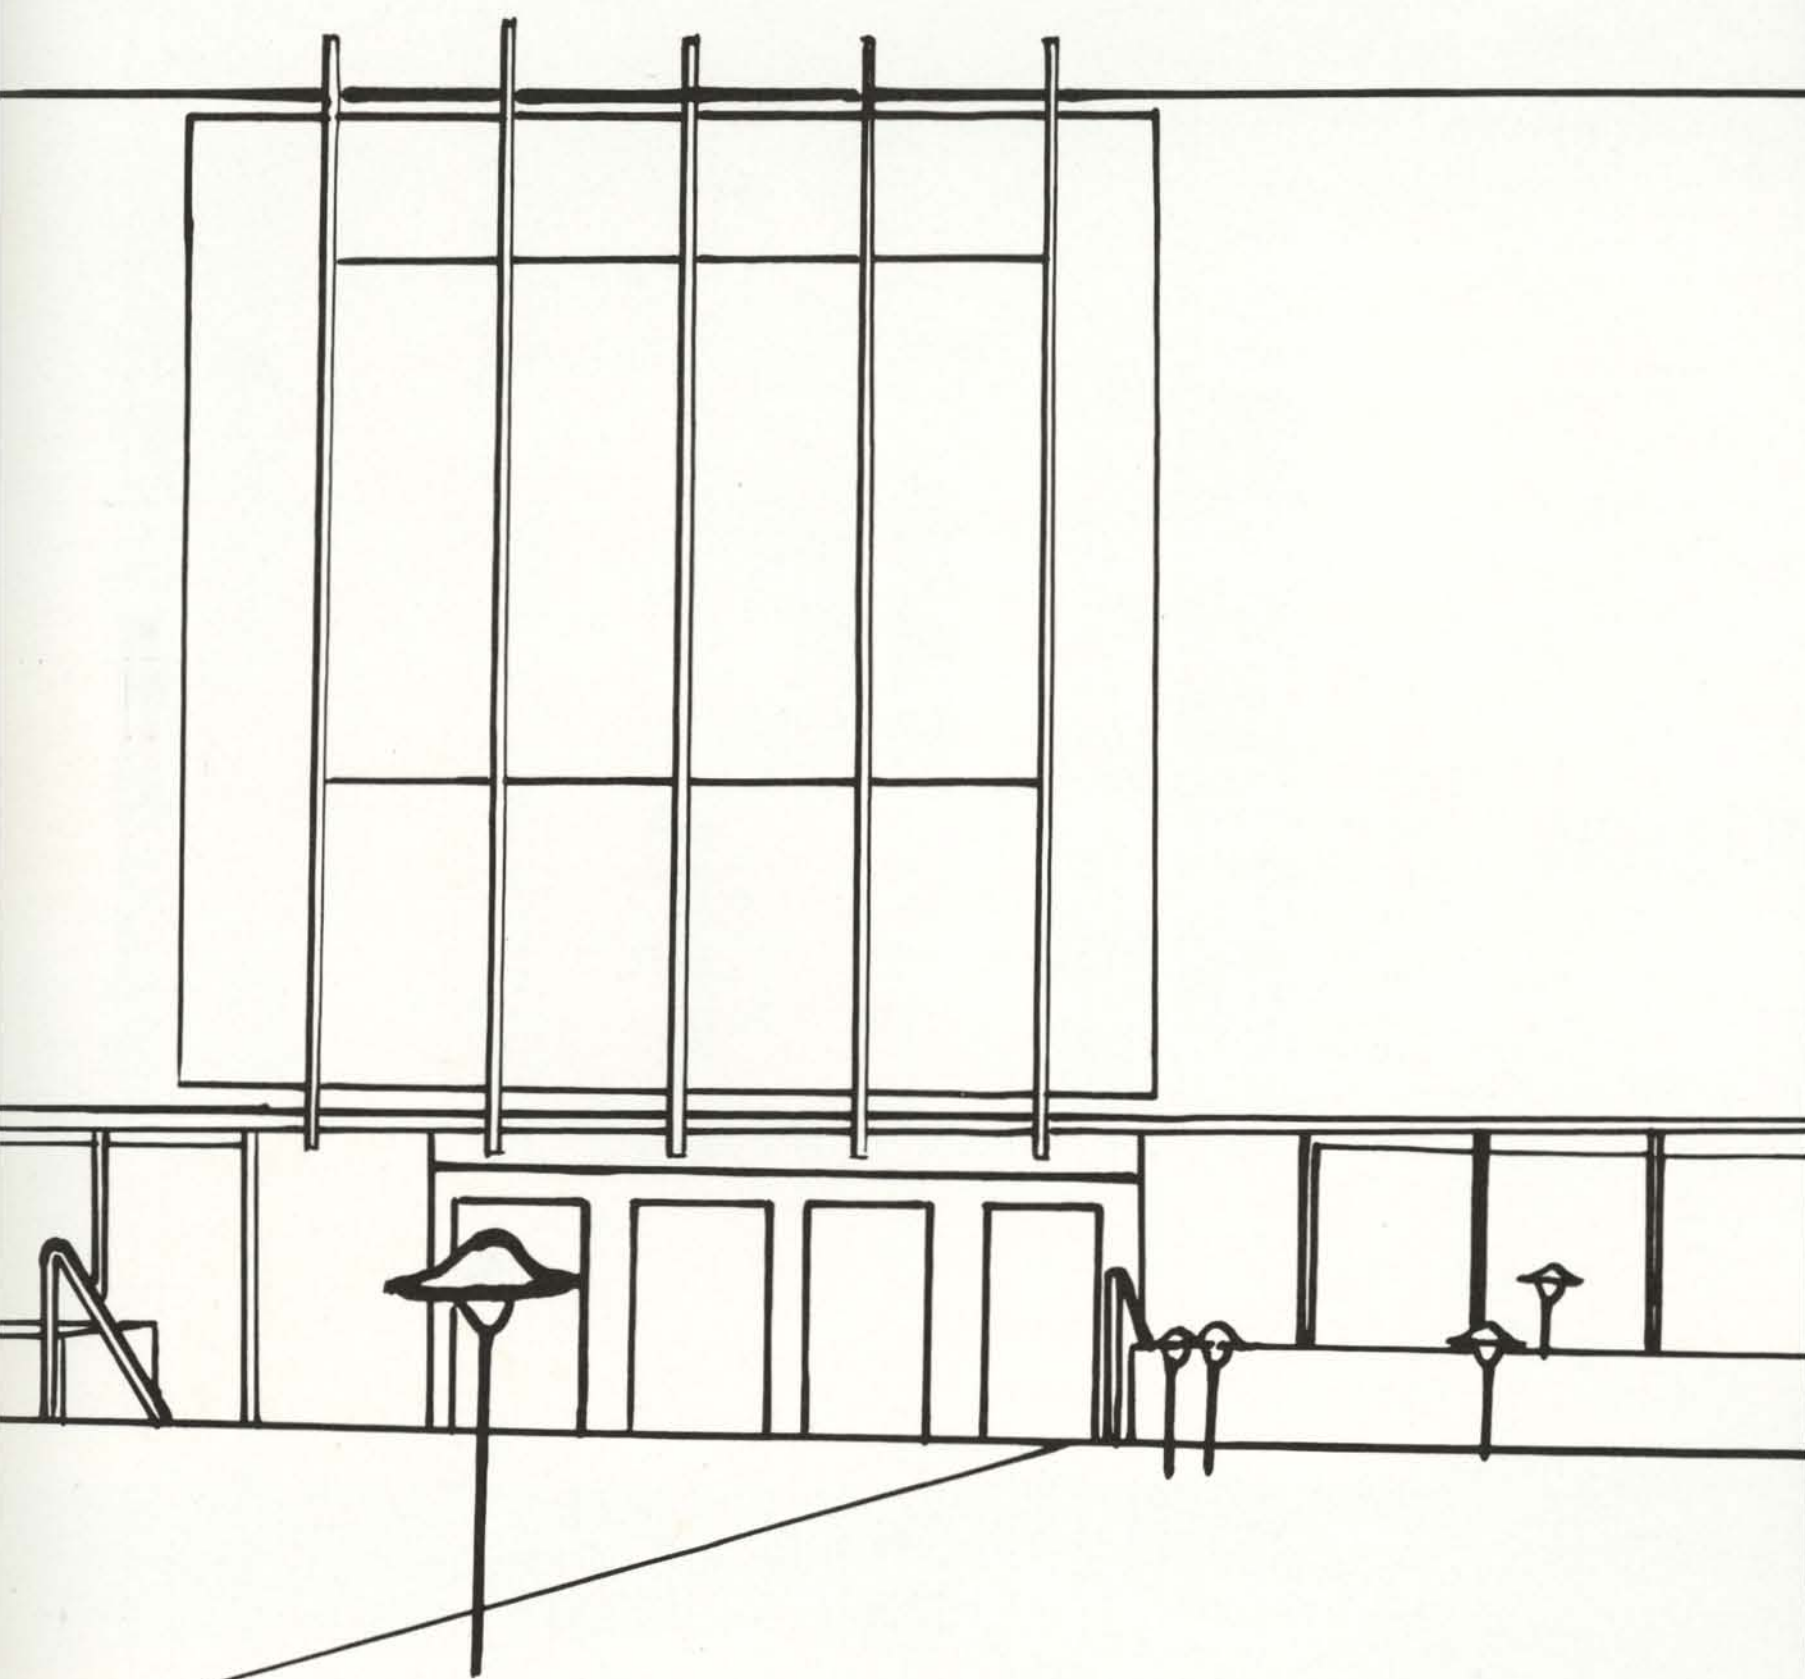

Although mechanical drawing courses were still held in the U High building, others such as metalwork, general shop, graphic arts, and electronics were held in the new building across the campus or in Metcalf.

With gavel in hand, Senior President Steve Adams listens critically to ideas for class gift.

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS:
Maggie White, secretary;
Neal Prince, vice-president;
Jan Collie, treasurer;
Steve Adams, president.

The senior class started the year off right at Homecoming. An octopus with legs that really moved won the grand prize. The seniors' sad-eyed, droopy-eared canine chalked up second prize in general float competition and won first prize in the originality category.

Not only did the seniors win at Homecoming; they also came in second in the United Fund Drive. A $2.00 club, numerous bake sales, car washes, and a dance helped the seniors get $133.

"The Grubs," a cheerleading squad dominated by seniors, gave our pep assemblies new life.

Six Merit Scholarship semi-finalists, Leigh Bassett, Lee Kuhfuss, Martha MacDuffee, Paul McGinnes, Sue Remsburg, and Margie Schroeder, and 15 state scholarship semi-finalists proved the high academic level of the class.

Graduation finally came, and as our seniors left Capen for the last time, they left with the knowledge that their four years at U High had been successful in almost every respect.

Sorcerer's apprentices find U High's chemistry lab a great place to mix up senior class fun.

Juniors Pinch Pennies Throughout Year for Prom

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS: Judy Replogle, asst. selling chairman; Sarah Walker, selling chairman; Sally Hyde, secretary; Elaine Reese, vice-president; Dick Templeton, treasurer; Tom Taulbee, president.

If there's one thing the junior class wasn't lacking, it was spirit. If you were ever in the lounge at noon or after school, you saw for yourself. At every game the juniors were laughing, cheering, and having a good time, no matter how much homework was waiting to be done.

The juniors had fun in whatever they did and accomplished a great deal at the same time. Remember the United Fund skit? The juniors' version of Cleopatra was far more entertaining than any Hollywood extravaganza, and our own leading ladies, Misses Bacon and Lewis, stole the show.

The juniors' spirit united them in a common cause, to work hard so they could enjoy themselves, for the class of '65 was eager to live life to the fullest. Even the class battlecry shows how eager they are: "Stand up and look alive; here comes the class of '65!"

Sophomores Rate Tops United Fund Drive

SOPHOMORE CLASS OFFICERS: Mary Lou Britt, secretary; Mae Lum, treasurer; Eric Larson, president; Margaret Tebrugge, vice-president.

How does a class make a name for itself? Just ask the sophomores. One good way is to win the United Fund Drive. Another is to have so many bake sales planned that the other classes have difficulty finding spots for themselves.

The sophomores also sponsored the annual Winter Formal, Satin Starlight, a pleasant interlude in January between semesters.

Sophomore leadership was more apparent than usual in Student Council. For example, the AFS committee, under Chairman Dale Neal, sponsored a variety show to raise money to bring another exchange student to U High next year.

It was in the classroom that the sophomores really starred. Twenty-nine of them, 18 per cent of the class, were on the first semester honor roll, and many of them achieved their standing while taking advanced courses.

Big and Excited Define This Year's Freshman Class

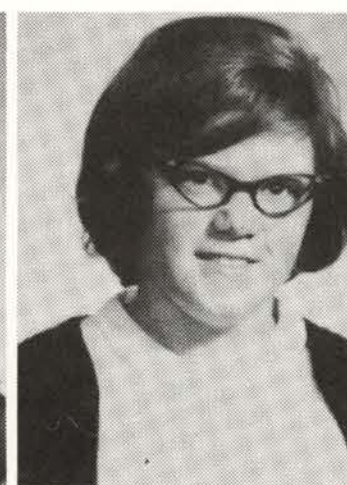

FRESHMAN CLASS OFFICERS: Linc King, president; Rachel Laubaugh, secretary; Ron Beilstein, vice-president; Robin Lantz, treasurer.

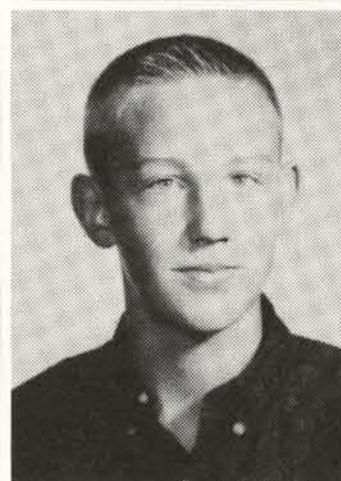

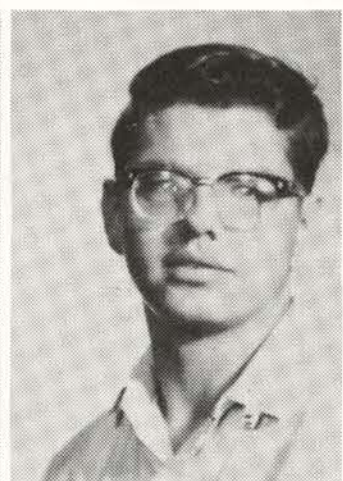

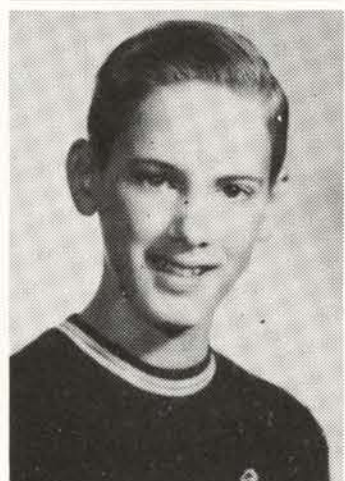

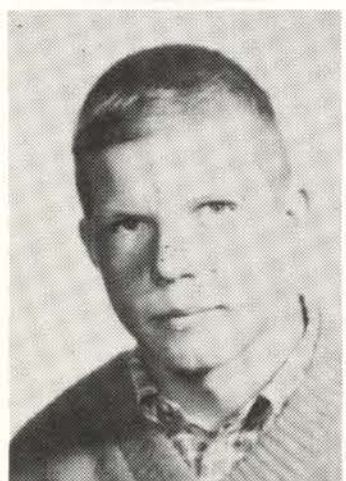

What will this year's freshman class be remembered for? Their size, for one thing. Never before has a class actually filled ALL their seats in Capen. Also, until the freshman class came, no one even considered actually using those third floor lockers that have plagued U High's halls for many years, but the admirable freshmen not only used the lockers, but even had fun while they did! Those freshmen not only had the biggest class; they had stamina!

The freshman cheerleaders pepped up our freshman games, no matter what the scoreboard read. The whole freshman class really yelled at all our games, and were, above all, good sports.

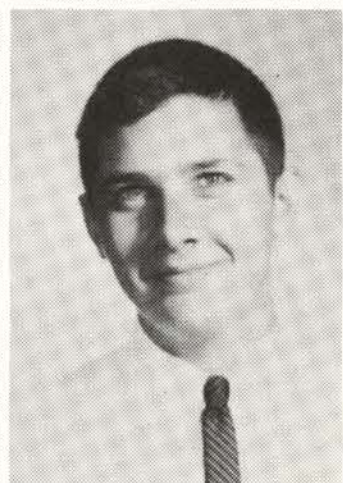

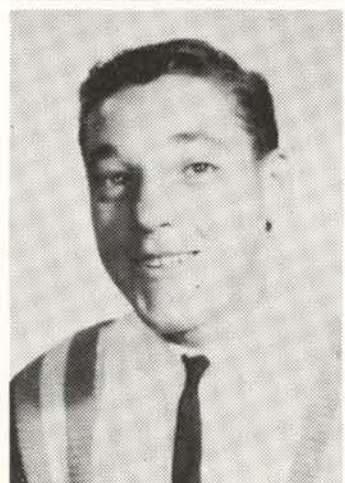

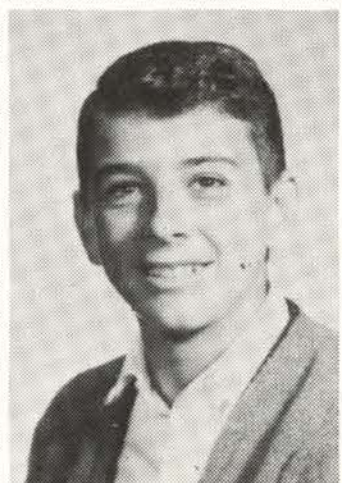

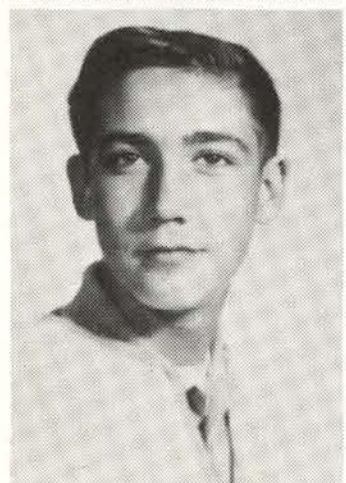

If the class of '67 continues to show such excellent citizenship, leadership, and initiative in its remaining three years, it should look good in the mantle of senior leadership.

Editor Thanks All Those Who Helped with Book

As I look back on the past year, I think of many experiences--both happy and sad--that we at U High have shared, experiences which have enriched our school year.

I think of the people who have planned together and those who have worked together to realize those plans: my editors, who would always "give it a try" no matter how difficult the assignment; Mr. Templeton, our adviser who could put up with almost anything except empty coke cups on the tables; and Mr. Smith of the ISU photographic service.

But, most of all, I think of the student body at U High, without whose help this book could never have been published; for, it is the student body who must sell the advertising and write the copy, print the pictures, and paste the headlines. Nor can one or two students fulfill these responsibilities; but rather, they must be accepted by the school as a whole. And so to all those who shared in producing this book, I say thank you.

To the student body and to our faculty, we present this Clarion, with the hope that it will serve as a cherished record of the 1963-64 school year.

Sincerely,

Claire Martens
Editor

Again in 1964:

Our goal is to continue to bring a plentiful supply of electric power into the areas we serve. Only as the communities in this area grow and prosper can Illinois Power grow and prosper.

There are many advantages for the industry that settles in Illinois including ample electric capacity for any present or future need.

The big job in Illinois is to let industry know of the advantages that are available in our state. We are all partners in this effort. Illinois Power is anxious to cooperate in any activity designed to bring industry into the territory we serve.
